

THE KENTUCKY KERNEL

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

TUESDAY ISSUE
SEMI-WEEKLY KERNEL

In one of the earlier sessions of the present Congress, a prominent senator made the remark, "There's something phoney about this war!" At that time he was referring to the situation at the outbreak of hostilities, when, despite the fact that both Allies had formally declared war and had massed a huge army on the western front, they stubbornly refused to make any offensive move against the Nazi forces or to give any definite information at all. The two democracies refused absolutely to allow newspapermen to visit the war zone, and rigidly censored all photographs of army activity. When these restrictions grew even more stringent, the rumor began to circulate that the Allies were making no attempt to prosecute the war, that they were waiting until the high-gear Germans had devoured Poland and made any further fighting futile. It was whispered that Chamberlain would then agree to another Hitler peace plan and the "war" would be over without losing the usual billions of dollars to the arms manufacturers. It was just too bad about Poland.

The rumor grew stronger as the Franco-British forces adopted their Fabian policy of waiting, as the Nazi war-horses rolled over Poland in the "blitzkrieg" that has now become history. As Hitler sued for peace on schedule. The rumor met sudden death, however, for the Allies didn't play the game and refused to accept der Führer's peace plans.

It became evident that the democracies had seen the futility of any possible aid to Poland and had realized the impossibility of smashing the enormous Siegfried line. They could not conquer Germany by military might; they would have to defeat her by economic starvation. The British fleet took up its blockade position and prepared to sit it out until the Nazis had eaten their last crust. The first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, in a significant broadcast, asked his countrymen to keep a firm hold on their nerves, to steel their courage, to ignore propaganda, and, of all things, to avoid being bored. As time marched on the wisdom of these last words became apparent. War communiques day after day simply say that artillery action has taken place and reconnaissance patrols were engaged.

Even more war boredom was foreseen this week when an official French bulletin announced that the Allied forces had withdrawn entirely from the territory which they had so painstakingly taken during these first seven weeks of hostilities. Their only objective seems to be a defense of the French borders to keep Hitler in Germany.

This Anglo-French blockade is beginning to be felt by Hitler. Late, he has sent one squadron of bombers after another to attack the English fleet and naval bases. His submarines no longer harass merchantmen; they are ordered to go for battleships, to smash the blockade at any costs.

How long the Nazi government will stand no one knows, it might even be victorious. The key seems to be in the hands of Joseph Stalin, the mystery man of Europe. If he decides to give Hitler supplies, Germany could resist indefinitely, but an authoritative source said last week that Stalin had refused to go under fuelled economically or otherwise, that he had gotten his share of Poland and was pretty well satisfied.

LATE DEVELOPMENTS:
MOSCOW—The Russian government newspaper accused the Turkish nation of attempting to drive a wedge between the new Soviet-German alliance by refusing a treaty concerning exclusive shipping rights through the Dardanelles.

The great communist power, which has been very active in gaining diplomatic concessions by modern power politics method, said that Turkey's refusal was a direct attempt to prevent the interchange of commerce between Hitler and Stalin.

On the other hand, Turkey's rejection raised Finland's stock several points. It is believed that the Soviets desire a Black Sea outlet more than they do another port in the Baltic region, and that Turkey would be the first country invaded by the Red Army. Observers believe that Finland and Turkey, by forcing the Russians to fight on two widely separated fronts, might successfully resist the Soviets.

What They Think

By BOB AMMONS

Question

"What happened to you in Louisville?"

What They Remember

Don Kells, Ag sophomore—"The street car we took out to the field caught on fire, and we didn't get there until the end of the first quarter."

Jeannette Graves, A & S freshman—"I saw the movie stars J. Carroll Naish, John Howard, and Olympia Bratina at the Brown Hotel."

Mari Brackett, A & S freshman—"We got there late and had to watch through the fence. I almost tore it down during that last quarter."

Bill Henderson, A & S junior—"I don't remember."

VOLUME XXX Z246

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1939

NEW SERIES NO. 10

Constitutionalist Candidates Duty, Nash, And Barker Elected

Neutrality's Nye . . .

PETITIONS DUE AT REGISTRAR'S ON WEDNESDAY

30 Signatures Needed Before Candidates May File

Aspirants for the 20 upperclass seats on the student legislature must submit petitions by 4 p. m. Wednesday at the registrar's office on the main floor of the Administration building. Voting on these legislative seats will be held Monday.

The two freshman representatives will be elected at a mass meeting of the freshman class immediately following the upperclass legislature elections. Candidates will be determined by the election board from the freshmen ranking in the first decile on all three classification tests.

Representatives shall number 22, and shall be elected by and from the colleges of the University, with the exception of the two freshman representatives. Representatives are determined by the proportion of the college enrollment to the total enrollment of the University, as nearly as possible except that no college will have less than one representative.

The talk will be under the auspices of the University Women's club, whose welfare committee is handling the ticket sale.

RHOADS AND NOE TO BE HONORED

Educators' Portraits To Be Unveiled

Two well known Kentucky educators, Dr. James Thomas Cotton Noe, poet laureate of Kentucky, and Dr. McHenry Rhoads, will be honored at 4 p. m. Friday at ceremonies in the auditorium of the College of Education.

Portraits of these two emeritus professors of education at the University, will be unveiled and presented to the University by members of Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternities.

The portraits, painted by Doris Fitz of Benham, have been framed in old gold leaf and marked with brass plates as follows: "James Thomas Cotton Noe, Professor Emeritus of Education, University of Kentucky. At the age of 75," and "McHenry Rhoads, Professor Emeritus of education, University of Kentucky. At the age of 81."

Dr. Wellington Patrick, head of department of history of education, will be asked to help conduct the legislative elections in the separate colleges. Students may vote only for representatives from their own colleges.

Representatives of the colleges on the Men's Student council will have charge of the election in their particular college unless these student councilmen are seeking office in the election. If they are candidates, someone else will be appointed in their places by the Men's Student Council.

Representation will be divided: 1 law, 1 representative (any student).

2) education, 1 representative (any student).

3) engineering, 2 representatives (1 senior and 1 underclassman — except freshman).

4) graduate school, 2 representatives (1 of these to be a man).

5) agriculture, 3 representatives (1 senior man, 1 underclassman — except freshman, 1 woman of any class — except freshman).

6) commerce, 3 representatives (1 senior man, 1 underclassman — except freshman, 1 woman of any class — except freshman).

7) arts and sciences, 8 representatives (2 senior men, 2 senior women, 2 underclassmen — except freshman, 2 women of any class — except freshman).

With President McVey presiding at the annual dinner-meeting of the educational conference and the Kentucky association will be held at

(Continued on Page Four)

Lafayette Studios
Bill Duty

Lafayette Studios
Jeanne Barker

Courtesy Lexington Herald
Bob Nash

When The Ballots Were Counted, The Smoke Cleared Away . . .

Nearly 1,600 Students Take Part In Balloting

President And Two Vice-Presidents To Head Revised System Of Student Government

Bill Duty, Bob Nash, and Jeanne Barker were picked for the respective posts of president, men's vice-president, and women's vice-president, when nearly 1,600 ballots were cast in yesterday's student government election.

A total of 1,579 ballots were dropped into the boxes, 1,075 by men and 504 by women. Because no choice was made or because too many candidates were chosen, six complete ballots were thrown out, two having been cast by men and four by women.

Although at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, it looked as though the entire election might be thrown out, differences between the three factions were finally settled. The dispute arose from an error in Tuesday's Kernel which stated that the election would be held from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. As in all previous elections, the Men's Student council, in charge of the balloting, had voted to close the polls at 4 p. m. But when the council members prepared to close the doors soon after that time, a storm of protest arose from the politicians.

Members of opposing parties finally agreed to the council's decision to bring into the voting rooms all students then waiting to vote, but to refuse all others. Not more than ten students were turned away after doors were closed—a number insufficient to have had any effect upon the outcome.

In the race for president, Duty polled 1,015 votes, Barrickman, 439, and Hunter, 113. Among the total of 1,573 votes counted, seven presidential ballots were thrown out. These particular ballots were counted in the vice-presidential vote but because of erroneous marking for president were not considered in the presidential race. After subtracting the invalidated ballots, the count stood at 1,566. Easily leading the other candidates, Duty's total passed the necessary majority of 734 by 231.

Closer than the principle race were the vice-presidential bouts. Nash led his nearest opponent, Harry Weeks, by 160 votes, and Barker nosed out Mary Lou McFarland by 108 votes.

Out of the 500 votes cast for women, Barker received 237, passing the necessary majority of 231 by 16. Although 1,073 men's ballots were counted, only 1,068 were counted in the vice-presidential race. The remaining five being thrown out because of erroneous marking.

Nash ran over the necessary majority of 545 by a margin of 26 and Weeks fell short of the majority by 134. Joe Massie and Lois Campbell trailed the other candidates.

The duplicates of only two students were voted according to election officials. Ballot numbers of these duplicates were held until after the election in order that they might be contested if the races were close enough to justify a recount. As it happened, the votes could not have made any appreciable difference in the outcome.

The results and information gathered by the economics commission will be given to the entire southern area of Christian associations to make students more alert to the problems which are defeating the Christian purpose. Mr. Peck said.

Committee Appoints Student Assistants

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees the following appointments were made: Bruce E. Dahring and William G. Huskel, research assistants in the College of Commerce for the second semester; John L. Williams, student assistant in the College of Commerce; Mrs. Mary A. LaGrone, student assistant in department of art; John Black, student assistant in the University training school.

Members of the executive committee are Judge R. C. Stoll, chairman; Bruce Weaver, Louisvile Municipal college, vice-president; and Dawson Davis, Centre, secretary.

The results and information gathered by the economics commission will be given to the entire southern area of Christian associations to make students more alert to the problems which are defeating the Christian purpose. Mr. Peck said.

Breakfast Is Served

Two hundred alumni and friends of the University attended the "Old Kentucky Breakfast" preceding the Georgia-Kentucky game last Saturday in the Crystal ballroom of the Brown hotel in Louisville. R. K. Salyers, alumni secretary, announced attendance.

Toaster master for the occasion was Tom Ballantine, 25, Louisville. Informality was the order of the day as short talks were made by Mayor Joseph Scholtz of Louisville and President McVey.

Campus concerts are presented in stately Memorial hall, but warm fall or spring days take the band and its audience to the campus amphitheater. There, in its own background, the band gets stiff concert routine and the program includes one or more popular tunes, solos and skits by band members, and at least one vocal chorus with the entire company participating.

Because the University is located in the heart of the Bluegrass, Derby Day is THE day on the band calendar. Band members travel by bus to Louisville, home of Churchill Downs, and last spring, with the University of Louisville band and four other Indiana and Kentucky bands, a musical program was provided Derby fans from 10 a. m. until sundown.

Pledged as associate members were Mary King Montgomery, instructor in physical education; Mrs. Robert Ogle, and Miss Margaret Warren.

Kampus Kernels

Cwens Change

Cwens meeting is scheduled for 5 p. m. Wednesday, 205, Union instead of Tuesday as announced.

Today

SuKy, 5 p. m., 204.

Publicity committee, 7 p. m. 127.

ODK, 5 p. m., 206.

University Woman's club, 2 p. m., 206.

University Democratic club, 3 p. m., ballroom.

Mortar board, 5 p. m., 205.

Wednesday

Reserve officers corps, 6:30 foot-ball room.

Music committee, 5 p. m., 127.

Alpha Tau Omega banquet, 6:30 p. m., ballroom.

Activities committee, 5 p. m., 206.

Keys alumni, 4 p. m.

Thursday

Wildcat staff, 5:30 p. m., 205.

Patterson Literary society, 4 p. m., 200.

Kentuckian business staff, 5 p. m., Kentuckian office.

OTHER NOTES

Today

Ag council, 5 p. m., student room, Ag building.

Physical Education club, 7:30 p. m., outside the Women's gym, hike and weiner roast.

Wednesday

International Relations club, 4 p. m., Administration building, 203.

Officers for next year will be elected and plans for the regional conference at Berea college in November will be discussed.

Band's Top Position On Popularity Front Threatened By Winning Wildcat Squad

By JOHN SAMARA

With the Wildcats hanging up their fourth consecutive victory on the gridiron this season, it begins to look as if an old, and sometimes distasteful, custom may have to be repeated to the scrap heap.

All too often football spectators have crowded the stadium at Lexington, ostensibly to see a football game, but have gone away praising the virtues of the "Best Band in Dixie."

This year, however, with the team showing promise of a victory check-report card, it threatens to be a dog-fight between the two organizations for the acclaim of fans. The band, struggling under new leadership, is confident that it will keep its place in the affections of the crowd, but gridiron boys are pleased.

Though most people think of a college band as a gay, colorful troupe tunefully parading across a football field, that is merely a small part of the work done by the group, and it is after the gridiron wars are over that the band boys settle down to more serious and far more important work.

As the football season closes, invitations come flocking in to the University band for concert appearances. Schools in outlying districts, sponsors of charity programs, local merchants, hospitals, and other organizations and institutions are eager to see and hear "The Best Band in Dixie."

Since it is representative of the state university "The Best Band in Dixie" naturally assumes a position as center of all state musical activities, and so the bandsmen as a group have taken it upon themselves to play "Big brother" to all the bands and music organizations of smaller schools and high schools of Kentucky. The University of Kentucky band, as an organization, supervises high school contests, band clinics, and music festivals, most of which are held on the University campus at Lexington, with band members acting as hosts to all participants.

But contests, festivals and contests have to be fitted into a program which is already filled with routine activities of a university band, such as military parades, athletic events, pep rallies, and campus concerts.

A feature of the program was the presence of Olympia Bradna, John Howard, and J. Carroll Naish, movie stars now making a personal appearance in Louisville. The stars were introduced by Boyd Martin, movie critic for the Courier-Journal.

Because the University is located in the heart of the Bluegrass, Derby Day is THE day on the band calendar. Band members travel by bus to Louisville, home of Churchill Downs, and last spring, with the University of Louisville band and four other Indiana and Kentucky bands, a musical program was provided Derby fans from 10 a.

THE KENTUCKY KERNEL

OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER OF THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY DURING THE SCHOOL YEAR EXCEPT HOLIDAYS OR EXAMINATION PERIODS

Entered at the Post Office at Lexington, Kentucky, as second class matter under the Act of March 3, 1879.

—MEMBER—

Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association

Lexington Board of Commerce

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY

National Advertising Service, Inc.

College Publishers Representative

420 MADISON AVE. NEW YORK, N.Y.

CHICAGO • BOSTON • LOS ANGELES • SAN FRANCISCO

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

$1.00 One Semester — $2.00 One Year

LOUIS T. IGLEHART ..... Editor-in-Chief

PATRICIA HAMILTON ..... Managing Editor

GEORGE LAMASON ..... News Editor

JOHN H. MORGAN ..... Business Manager

JOE CREASON ..... Sports Editor

WINNIE MCKINNEY ..... Circulation Manager

JIMMY HALE ..... Cartoons

JACK TREADWAY ..... Staff Photographer

VIRGINIA HAYDEN ..... Society Editor

CHARLES A. SMITH ..... Advertising Manager

Associate Editors

BEN WILLIAMS JIM CALDWELL

LOUISE CALBERT

VINCENT CROWDUS Assistant News Editor

LAURA LEE LYONS Assistant Society Editor

MADELINE LOVINS Proofreader

Reporters

Rita Sue Laslie, Wayne Howells, Ruth Freedman, Fred Hill,

Joe Hodges, Bob Ammons, John Williams, Roberta Brougham,

Mildred Murray, Jim Woodbridge, John Samara, Jane Day, Roy

Steinfort.

B. W.

On The Need For Well Chosen Representatives

Representatives will be "go-betweens" from the student body to higher government officials. They will be the "sounders" of a student voice on matters affecting government of the student body. Representatives must be reporters, judges, must know the problems arising in the University. Above all, they must know their respective colleges and the student population. The student legislature must be actually representative of the opinion, thought, and needs of the student body in every sense. Thus, election of twenty-two representatives for the student legislature demands even greater thought and consideration than choice of president and vice-presidents, for upon the legislature rests the task of making the new student government function to its greatest possible capacity.—L. C.

Senator Nye—And Needy Students

Dean T. T. Jones has estimated that one-fourth of all University students earn all or part of their expenses during the college year. Of this number, approximately 600 are men. Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, assistant dean of women, has compiled statistics which show that 340 women earned all or part of their way during the last school year.

When it is realized that such a large number of students are comparatively "on their own," the full significance of work done by various campus groups for these students is apparent. Among the leaders in this category is the welfare committee of the University Women's club.

For obvious reasons, a group which renders such services as buying text books, helping pay tuition, furnishing clothing, making loans, and meeting hospital bills, can not very well publicize its good deeds. Nevertheless, the force of its work is felt by the needy students and by the University.

This year, in order to raise additional funds to carry on the work, the Woman's club is bringing to this campus Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota. Senator Nye, known as a "champion of peace," was one of the authors of the first neutrality bill introduced in the 1936 Senate. At present, he is leading figure in neutrality debates, and even though he were sponsored by a selfish organization his discussion would be fully worth the price of admission.

But now, with the two-fold advantage of being able to help needy students, and also being treated to a close-up of the neutrality question, every member of the University staff and student body should feel it a privilege to purchase tickets for the lecture.

The Colonel Is "A Hog About Them"

The Colonel went up to the University radio studios in McVey hall the other night, and when he came back down, he was complaining that people didn't tell him these things. It's wonderful, he said.

He raved about the eighteen-piece staff orchestra and swore that those experts who rated our studios among the finest in the nation didn't know the half of it.

"There are three complete studios up there," the Colonel bragged, "three studios, and they're just about as large and well-equipped as any you'll find."

We concluded the Colonel was impressed, that he was "just a hog about them."

So we went up to see them ourselves.

The Colonel was right.—J. C.

Not Only Love Is Fickle

School spirit and pride in team are two associates which walk hand in hand through college years. Looking back through past seasons, it is readily apparent that school spirit has been a fickle thing indeed at the University of Kentucky. Here it has approached the desired level only on rare occasions and has remained completely listless the majority of the time. The fact that a team may lose, not because it lacks fight, but because the opposition is stronger, faster, and better, is an accepted fact at most schools.

On this campus, it is the signal for a wholesale disowning of the team by the student body.

At present, the team is on top—both in games won and in student esteem. Enthusiasm runs high and we tell the world that the University is our school and the Wildcats our team. But, lest we forget, each coming game is a challenge not only to the team but to the student body—a challenge to stay behind the Wildcats, win or lose.

A strong cheering section and campus loyalty might possibly spur a winning team to do some better, but the same combination would cause a losing team to fight a little harder and hold the line a little longer. Win, lose, or draw, let's hang on to our new-found pride in the team.

—B. W.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

"Beauty," the poet has writ, "lurks in unsuspected realms." We really don't know whether any poet has written that, but if one hasn't he should.

On our way to school this morning we saw a trailer. Now there is nothing unusual about seeing a trailer, but around this one hovered a faint aroma. So we investigated. Inside was a goat!

A goat, we immediately found, is a thing of exquisite beauty. It had been years since we had seen or even thought of a goat, but the subject evokes tender childhood recollections. We remember a book, "The Adventures of Billy Whiskers," and the time a goat hitched to a cart ran away with our little brother, then aged four.

But that was long ago—and our aesthetic sense had not been developed. We saw a goat then only as an energetic and somewhat dangerous plaything; we did not realize its beauty.

But we do now. And we want a goat for a pet. The only thing that makes us pause is what our family would say should we come in leading a goat by a string. They probably wouldn't be appreciative.

But we intend to have a pet goat someday. It will frolic in the sun, and we will sit and contemplate its beauty.

It'll make a swell depository for rejected manuscripts, too.

* * * * *

Everybody's back home and happy over the outcome of the Wildcat-Georgia game. It's a swell idea having the game at Louisville: must have helped the athletic coffers no end. We don't see why they don't carry the idea further. By selling students tickets and holding the game a hundred miles away, there were a great many students who didn't attend, which means the athletic department could sell those tickets twice.

Now why doesn't the athletic moguls schedule a game at Louisville, sell a lot of tickets to Louisvillians and play the game, say at Henderson. That means a lot of Louisville people couldn't go, and the department would sell those tickets again. That would make three sales for each seat.

Of course they might have trouble getting people in Louisville to buy tickets for a game at Henderson; they didn't have to worry about that with students.

It's something we haven't figured out yet.

* * * * *

SIGN IN THE KERNEL OFFICE: WAA NEWS—Please note: R. Laslie. WAA is not a radio call number.

* * * * *

DALADIER SAYS HITLER BREAKS HIS PROMISES

—Headline in The Leader.
(Great thoughts of great minds)

* * * * *

Thoughts on Literature
We'd like to have the mind
To follow Gertrude Stein.

* * * * *

When the inquisitive soul asked, "How is your courting getting along these days," we didn't say "We're getting over like the Athenians."

Any day now, we may expect to

Let's Hope They Run Out Of Mud

Letters To The Editor

October 23, 1939

Dear Editor:

As a former member of the KERNEL reportorial staff I am well acquainted with the "don'ts" of KERNEL reporting as advanced by the copy desk and the journalism department. Naturally, I was quite surprised when I read the first page play given to the political rally of last Thursday night. The tenor of the article seemed to me to violate every principle of fair news reporting, and it was quite discouraging to know that the copy desk committed the miserable errors of allowing prejudice and bias to creep into its news accounts.

Just read that story aloud to yourself, and if it doesn't sound like first-class irrelevant opinion and biased news presentation, then you deserve a job on some newspaper which is a leading exponent of slander, libel and misinformation. Regardless of which political party won the blue ribbons in yesterday's election, the fact stands that the KERNEL erred sadly.

As a student I feel that the KERNEL is responsible to me and every other student and not alone to its copy desk, editor or business office. Thus, when the KERNEL campaigns for democratic principles, it is material to me that the tenets for which the paper fights should appear first on the paper itself. If, after all the campaigning, the KERNEL can allow editorial opinion to creep into supposedly "fair" news accounts, then it has failed where it expects its readers to succeed—

Sincerely,

ALLENBY E. WINER

X-Ray Machine Is Housed In Lead To Protect Workers

By BOB AMMONS

X-rays from a 200,000 volt machine, so powerful that it must be housed in a special lead-lined room with walls twenty inches thick, are used to take radiographs of metal specimens in the mining and metallurgy laboratory.

To protect operators and observers from exposure to the penetrating rays of this super-machine, every major safety device known to science has been incorporated in the x-ray room, designed by Dr. Lester Mettapol, assistant professor of metallurgy.

This equipment, as modern as that of any university in the country, is completely surrounded by lead, and is sandwiched in the thick brick walls, the six inch concrete roof, and the 2000 pound door. All electrical connections and wires are brought under the walls and up through the floor, and are cased in lead pipes, which the rays can not penetrate.

The door is set two inches into the floor, and the joint is sealed by overlapping lead sheets, sunk six inches into the floor. It slides on rollers and is so constructed that the machine will not operate if the door is open.

The operator can observe the machine through a thick glass window, twenty-five percent lead, and can control the machine by handles and dials from the outside.

Since high voltage in the air generates ozone, which creates deadly nitric gases, a special vent of lead baffles and high powered fans draw the ozone out of the room.

The 200,000 volt, oil-cooled machine, housed in the west end of the old Wendt forge shop in the engineering quadrangle, was used this summer to x-ray test welds on the all-welded state office building in Frankfort, and to provide a test for qualified welders. Radiographs, when developed, show dark splashes to indicate air bubbles and flaws in the weld. Twenty-four new fencing foils, purchased for the fencing team, were x-rayed and found flawless.

A 50,000 volt diffraction tube, especially built for the University, and a completely equipped darkroom for developing the negatives are also included in the installation. The diffraction tube is used in atomic structure research and has unlimited life, while the larger 200,000 volt tube can be used only about 1000 hours.

In contrast to this modern equipment, there is on the ground floor of the Engineering quadrangle an exhibit of the first radiographs made in the South, and some of the apparatus used. These were made under the direction of Dean F. Paul Anderson and H. B. McClellan on February 20, 1896, just five days after Professor Roentgen's memoirs were published, i.e. the experimental laboratory of what was then the School of Mechanical Engineering, State College of Kentucky.

An interpretative reading of the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," by Robert Sherwood, will be given by Mrs. George Edwin Smith of the department of English as a demonstration of her talk on "Letting the Books Speak."

Briscoe To Speak

Will Lecture Here

The library section of the state educational conference will have as its principle speaker Miss Nora Beust, specialist in school libraries from the United States Office of Education. Miss Beust, well known as a librarian in the field of education, and an authority on books for children and young people, will respond to the theme of the conference, "Education for Democracy" by discussing "Books for the Youth of America" at the first meeting 9:50 Saturday morning, October 28, in the lecture room of the University library.

On the other hand, there are those teachers who fall without hesitation into the undergraduate "blacklist." These are the ones who are to be avoided at all times, at any cost.

And the impressive thing about the matter is that it all comes about through word-of-mouth—there is not, to our knowledge, a written classification sheet in existence anywhere on the campus.

So it was with pricked-up ears that we recently read of a booklet published by an anonymous group of students at the University of California. It was entitled "Guide to Courses," and included candid classificatory comments upon the personalities and teaching abilities of foremost California pedagogues. Sample paragraph from the pamphlet is this: "Ronald L. Olson (methodical, old-time anthropologist)—Interesting material, old joke, detailed memory examinations."

Another excerpt: "Herbert E. Bolton (history department chairman)—Excessively dull lectures; study the outline and you've got a pipe."

The idea, as we pointed out previously, has been prevalent, if un-written, both here and, we suppose, over the rest of the nation. Now that the Californians have led the way with a real, concrete classification of instructors, other undergraduates of other schools might take up the torch.

Any day now, we may expect to

MICHLER Florist
CUT FLOWERS
and
CORSAGES
417 E. Maxwell
PHONE 1419

New Radio Series To Be Streamlined

The University radio station now transmits a new educational program over the southern network of the Mutual Broadcasting system between 1:30 and 2:00 p.m. C.S.T. Monday to Friday inclusive.

The program, "Southern School of the Air," is carried to WLAP, Lexington, and then to the Mutual system. Besides WLAP, present members of the network include WCMU, Ashland, WGRC, Louisville, and WSIX, Nashville. Other stations will probably be added shortly. Elmer G. Sulzer, head of the studios said.

George Lamason is sporting a set of carved up knuckles. He says that he got into a Cat fight this week and it was just too much for him. Phi Tau, Eddie David, wishes it made known that the New University Morons club will not meet in the SUB grill at the next convocation.

When quizzed whether he and Dorothy (DDD) Hillenmeyer ever parked on those numerous dates, Phitau John Conrad quipped: "No, we are always in a U-drive, and it costs too much."

Wonder what game he saw? He was started in the general direction of the Cat game but must have followed the wrong Hiway signs . . . Phi Delt Rollins Woods acquired a peculiar tone to his speech. Rollins was also a member of the welcoming committee at the "Cottage."

George Lamason is sporting a set of carved up knuckles. He says that he got into a Cat fight this week and it was just too much for him. Phi Tau, Eddie David, wishes it made known that the New University Morons club will not meet in the SUB grill at the next convocation.

When quizzed whether he and Dorothy (DDD) Hillenmeyer ever parked on those numerous dates, Phitau John Conrad quipped: "No, we are always in a U-drive, and it costs too much."

To Visit Centers

Elmer G. Sulzer, University publicity director in charge of the University radio studios, together with Frank Ernest Hill, director of study for the Federal Radio Education Committee and Miss Mary A. Sands, from the University of Wisconsin radio station WHA, left yesterday for a three day study of mountain listening centers. They will be presented.

Patronize Kernel Advertisers

Chatter Bits

As Told To GEORGE MARTIN

All we can possibly say to start out is "IT'SURE WAS." To quote one campus beauty on the weather conditions—"Umm, What a dance Friday night! Umm, What a game Saturday afternoon! Oh-what a Sunday morning. After the game, the Cottage in Louisville was the scene of many interesting happenings. Corn shocks made most excellent guns for military drills, the music box, with a

Alumni News --

The alumni of New York and vicinity had a dinner meeting October 10th, 7 p.m. at the Theresa Worthington Grant restaurant 284 Park Avenue, New York city. Stephen A. Rapier, ex-student, was chairman of the special committee which consisted of Howard Ingels, '05; Hitter Lowry, '09; Fred Rankin, '07; Joe Shelby, '10; Tobe Smith, '04; Charley White, '07; Rufus Weaver, '95. Mr. Rapier sent us the following letter:

"Dr. and Mrs. McVey were at the same time both our honored guests and our most excellent host and hostess. Mrs. McVey's ensemble was undoubtedly, "dernier cri chez Molynex" with a beautiful corsage of proper dimensions and displacement. (New York exporter speaking.) Dr. McVey threatened to buy asbestos shoes if the heat wave continued.

"We were eighty-five strong, placed with mathematical precision in a 'boîte de nuit,' and the President had us just where he wanted us. No one could escape without running a triple gauntlet, so no one did. President McVey measured up to everything any of the old alumni could expect of a president of the University of Kentucky. He carried himself with the proper dignity and expressed himself with a 'savoir faire' that was convincing and enjoyable to all.

"He told us about the University that many of us have not seen in years and years. When he came to the 260,000 books in the library, we felt just a little sorry for the present students who have to take them in their stride. Some of the old grads could not recall any library at all as existing in their time. The defeat of Vanderbilt was the highlight of the evening."

Lila Evalin Titworth, '39, is working in the King's Daughters Hospital, Ashland. . . . David I. Randall, '37, is working in the Pond Laboratory, State College, Penn. . . . Nancy Ann Sample, '32, (Mrs. A. C. King) lives at Morehead. . . . Oliver Lander Bright, '32, is an attorney in the United States treasury department. His home address is Apartment 3, building 101-208 N. Trenton street, Arlington, Va.

George G. Grimm Jr., '33, lives at 2231-G. street, Baker's Find, Calif. His occupation is oil prospecting. . . . John Grady O'Hara, '37, is in the law office, Central Avenue, Lafollette, Tenn. . . . Henry Harris, '36, lives in Nashville, Tenn. His present address is the Protestant hospital in the city. . . . Llewellyn C. Hardisty, '12, lives at 303 Sanders avenue, Scotia, N. Y. He is an electrical engineer with the General Electric Co. in Schenectady, N. Y.

F. R. Naylor, '11, is an engineer for the T. & P. railroad company, 1003 T. and P. building, Dallas Texas. His home address is 1131 N. Winnetka avenue. . . . Theo Slade '11, lives at 125 Cassidy avenue, Lexington. He is sales-manager for the Central Kentucky Natural Gas company. . . . William C. Rudd, '13, lives at 19361 Strathearn drive, Detroit. He is a water engineer for the department of water supply at 735 Randolph street.

Mary Belle Pence, '13, (Mrs. George M. Wolfe) lives at Route 3, Winchester. . . . John Wilson Porter, '13, is the manager of the American Steel Foundries, East Chicago, Ind. He lives at 2373 East 70th street, Chicago. . . . Herman J. Kloepfer, '25, is instructor in social science, Kiroville, Tenn. His home address is Lexington, Ind. . . . W. J. Moore, '25, is a professor at Eastern State Teacher's College, Richmond.

Ann B. Sprague, '23, lives at 1600 Richmond road, Lexington. She is very much interested in the American Association of University Women and is fellowship chairman for the year, with Lexington's second annual antiques' exhibit in her planning.

Conferences for re-organization plans and initiation of Alpha Delta Theta members into Phi Mu will be held at the Lafayette hotel, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 7 and 8, followed Wednesday evening, November 9, with a formal dinner.

W. V. Va. . . . Frank D. Cain, '13, is manager, district No. 9, bituminous coal division, U. S. department of the interior. He lives at 3415 south Main street, Madisonville.

E. J. Kohn, '12, is chief of the bureau of steam engineering of the Tennessee Coal, Iron, railroad company, Ensley, Ala. His home address is 1023 S. 33rd street, Birmingham, Ala. . . . James T. Lowe, '12, is an engineer with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, 463 West at room 666-A, New York city. He lives on Green Hill road, Madison, N. J. . . . Wallace C. Duncan, '11, is manager, lamp department, International General Electric company, 570 Lexington avenue, New York city. He is married to Margaret Sprague, ex-student, and they live at 78 Westover avenue, W. Caldwell, N. J.

W. A. Lurtye, '11, is an electrical engineer with Day and Zimmerman Inc., Packard building, Philadelphia. His home address is 311 Geneva avenue, Glenside, Pa. . . . Arthur Carlton Ball, '11, is the general manager of the Ball and company incorporated, 895-899 east High street, Lexington. He lives at 322 Clay avenue. . . . Harry G. Black, '32, is an attorney at law. He is married to Dorothy Duvall Carr, '31, and their address is Box 92, Hawesville.

Betty Helburn, '25, is the dietitian at the Lebanon hospital, Westchester and Cauldwell avenue, New York city. . . . Owen Daniel, '25, is traffic manager of the Southern Bell T. and T. company. His home address is 200 S. W. 20th road, Miami, Fla. . . . C. D. French, '25, is the sales manager of the Certaineed Products corporation, 300 Securities building, Seattle, Wash. He lives at 2301 Shoreland drive.

Margaret Scotlow, '35, is married to Hamilton B. Greenup, '34, who is field representative for the Ethyl Gasoline corporation. They live at 1242 Farnsworth drive, Charleston,

J. A. Engle, '23, is a professor of mathematics at Richmond. He is married to Kathryn Johnson, '25, and they live at 222 south Third street, Richmond. . . . R. H. Craig, '22, is branch manager of the Armstrong Cork company, 221 Heyburn building, Louisville. He lives at 1701 Gresham road. . . . Sam H. Ridgeway Jr., '23, is district plant chief for the Southern Bell T. and T. Co., New Orleans, La.

James "Rip" Miller, '35, is manager of the International Business Machines corporation, 808 Church street, Nashville, Tenn. He is married to Elizabeth Schaffner, ex-student, and they live on Burton avenue. . . . Captain John A. Dabney, '26, is an officer in the United States Army. His residence address is 420-10 Kearny, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

P. A. Engle, '23, is a professor of mathematics at Richmond. He is married to Kathryn Johnson, '25, and they live at 222 south Third street, Richmond. . . . R. H. Craig, '22, is branch manager of the Armstrong Cork company, 221 Heyburn building, Louisville. He lives at 1701 Gresham road. . . . Sam H. Ridgeway Jr., '23, is district plant chief for the Southern Bell T. and T. Co., New Orleans, La.

The actives of Kappa Gamma entertained for the pledges with a buffet supper Wednesday night at the house.

Dean Sarah Blanding spoke on "Points To Be Considered In Evaluating Your Chapter." A round table discussion was held on this subject after supper.

Deedie Allen was in charge of arrangements for the party.

Sorority Pledges Feted At KD Tea

The actives of Epsilon Omega of Kappa Delta entertained Wednesday afternoon at the chapter house with a tea for the pledges of all the other sororities on the campus.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Grace Pride, Annette Arrends, Elina Winkler, and Polly Pollitt.

The house and tea table were decorated with garden flowers and lighted with tapers.

Pat Pennebaker received the guests at the door.

The Social Whirl*Activities Planned To Celebrate Merger Of Two Sororities

Pioneering in the field of fraternal relations, Alpha Delta Theta and Phi Mu, national social sororities, plan a merger of membership to take place in all college chapters throughout the United States, November 6 to 9, combining the chapters of Alpha Delta Theta, founded at Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky., with those Phi Mu, the second oldest fraternal organization for women, founded at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga.

Beginning the merger activities, a tea will be given by the Transylvania active chapter of Alpha Delta Theta, Monday afternoon, November 6 at Hamilton Hall, with the national officers of both Phi Mu and Alpha Delta Theta as honored guests, together with sorority and fraternity officials from both campuses, as well as individual members and alumnae groups.

Conferences for re-organization plans and initiation of Alpha Delta Theta members into Phi Mu will be held at the Lafayette hotel, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 7 and 8, followed Wednesday evening, November 9, with a formal dinner.

W. Va. . . . Frank D. Cain, '13, is manager, district No. 9, bituminous coal division, U. S. department of the interior. He lives at 3415 south Main street, Madisonville.

E. J. Kohn, '12, is chief of the bureau of steam engineering of the Tennessee Coal, Iron, railroad company, Ensley, Ala. His home address is 1023 S. 33rd street, Birmingham, Ala. . . . James T. Lowe, '12, is an engineer with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, 463 West at room 666-A, New York city. He lives on Green Hill road, Madison, N. J. . . . Wallace C. Duncan, '11, is manager, lamp department, International General Electric company, 570 Lexington avenue, New York city. He is married to Margaret Sprague, ex-student, and they live at 78 Westover avenue, W. Caldwell, N. J.

W. A. Lurtye, '11, is an electrical engineer with Day and Zimmerman Inc., Packard building, Philadelphia. His home address is 311 Geneva avenue, Glenside, Pa. . . . Arthur Carlton Ball, '11, is the general manager of the Ball and company incorporated, 895-899 east High street, Lexington. He lives at 322 Clay avenue. . . . Harry G. Black, '32, is an attorney at law. He is married to Dorothy Duvall Carr, '31, and their address is Box 92, Hawesville.

Betty Helburn, '25, is the dietitian at the Lebanon hospital, Westchester and Cauldwell avenue, New York city. . . . Owen Daniel, '25, is traffic manager of the Southern Bell T. and T. company. His home address is 200 S. W. 20th road, Miami, Fla. . . . C. D. French, '25, is the sales manager of the Certaineed Products corporation, 300 Securities building, Seattle, Wash. He lives at 2301 Shoreland drive.

Margaret Scotlow, '35, is married to Hamilton B. Greenup, '34, who is field representative for the Ethyl Gasoline corporation. They live at 1242 Farnsworth drive, Charleston,

J. A. Engle, '23, is a professor of mathematics at Richmond. He is married to Kathryn Johnson, '25, and they live at 222 south Third street, Richmond. . . . R. H. Craig, '22, is branch manager of the Armstrong Cork company, 221 Heyburn building, Louisville. He lives at 1701 Gresham road. . . . Sam H. Ridgeway Jr., '23, is district plant chief for the Southern Bell T. and T. Co., New Orleans, La.

The actives of Kappa Gamma entertained for the pledges with a buffet supper Wednesday night at the house.

Dean Sarah Blanding spoke on "Points To Be Considered In Evaluating Your Chapter." A round table discussion was held on this subject after supper.

Deedie Allen was in charge of arrangements for the party.

Sorority Pledges Feted At KD Tea

The actives of Epsilon Omega of Kappa Delta entertained Wednesday afternoon at the chapter house with a tea for the pledges of all the other sororities on the campus.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Grace Pride, Annette Arrends, Elina Winkler, and Polly Pollitt.

The house and tea table were decorated with garden flowers and lighted with tapers.

Pat Pennebaker received the guests at the door.

FASHION PREVIEW

Mix-and-mingle dresses are the delight of the college girl's heart. These two-piece, spun rayon dresses—each with skirt and shirt—can be worn to match or to contrast. Good Housekeeping suggests one dress of green and blue and one of solid green for quick changes in costume.

at the hall last week were Anita Gardiner, Mrs. Sarah Holmes, Margaret Clark, Corinne Ziegler, Marion Valleau, Mrs. R. L. Snow, Danville, and Barbara McVey.

George Dowson and Joe Creason spent the weekend in Louisville at the home of Cliff Shaw.

Georgetown university traces its origin back to the Jesuit school established in Maryland in 1634.

Phone 266 101 Lime

Ford U-Drive-It

ALL NEW CARS

FORDS AND DODGES

For Rent

139 E. Short Street

Lexington, Kentucky

Phone 648

Social Briefs

Jewell Hall

Alice Sanders, Marie Hypes, Elizabeth Clifton, Betty Malmberg, Jane Allen, Billie Raymond, Louise Jones, Andrew Smith, Shirley Hutchins, Eloise Rochester, June Lockhart, Lorraine Towles, Esther Pierson, Doris Settle, Margaret Zoeller, Mattingine Palmore, Leisla Moran, Jessie Reynolds, Dixie Hellmer, Patsy Drane, Margaret Pruitt, Ida Joe Shouse, Margaret Abel, Mary Duncan, Jean Marie McConnell, Betty Hayes, Betty Vosmer, Lavada Thompson, Julie Weakley, Vivian Smith, Harriet Canary, Mary Virginia Wayne, Martha Witsell, Jane Rice and Sis Puryear attended the Kentucky-Georgia football game in Louisville Saturday. Thelma Stamper and Muriel Wilson have been ill in the infirmary. Sara White Hopkinsville, was a weekend guest of Lucy Crenshaw. Lillian Williams, Paintsville, and Ila Conley, Ashland, spent the weekend with Audrey Parsons. Dinner guests

Exclusive With Us Admiration COSTUME HOSIERY

$1.00 to $1.15

Baynham Shoe Co. (Incorporated)

135 East Main St.

LATE DATES

MEAN

LATE SNACKS

COME TO

the

WHITE SPOT

OPEN ALL NIGHT

LOANS

ON

Signature Only*LAWFUL RATES IMMEDIATE SERVICE

Visit, Phone, or Write

TIME FINANCE CO.

Incorporated

Phone 266

101 Lime

Taylor Tire Company

(Incorporated)

Complete One-Step Service

Vine at Southeastern Ave. 24 HOUR SERVICE

PHONE 2630

24

HOUR SERVICE

24

Cats March Through Georgia, 13-6, Amid Aerial Bombardment

J. B. ABRAHAM
Watchmaker and Jeweler

Where good work and low
prices go together

WATCH - JEWELRY
OPTICAL REPAIRS
AT A SAVING
226 E. Main St.
3 doors east State Theatre

PASS TO JONES NETS FIRST SCORE

By JOE CREASON
Kernel Sports Editor

Striking swiftly through the air with a final quarter passing bombardment, Kentucky's Wildcat football team collared the Georgia Bulldogs by a 13-6 score before 15,000 thrill-goggy customers Saturday afternoon on Louisville's DuPont Manual field.

Kentucky drew first blood in the last 8 minutes of play on a long pass from Ermal Allen to Junior Jones only to see Georgia, three minutes later, again deadlock the game on a pass and two short plunges by Jim Fordham. Then, with but seconds remaining to play, the Cats showed their nerve by driving 72 yards to score on a pass, Dave Zoeller to Jim Hardin.

And so it was, after one of the most harrowing, hair-greying games imaginable, that Kentucky remained unbeaten thus far in the year.

Except for their one scoring thrust and a drive in the first two minutes that was stymied on the Kentucky 16 yard line, the Bulldogs never threatened to score. Meanwhile, the Cats not only knocked at the Georgia scoring door—they pounded. Three Kentucky touchdown excursions were grounded within the 3 yard line as the Georgia defense showed real bulldog tenacity.

Statistics prove that Kentucky had it over the Southerners like a tent over a circus. The Cats rushed the leather 182 yards for 16 first downs as compared to 84 yards by running and 9 first downs for Georgia. Passes were as thick as ants at a picnic with Kentucky finding vacant arms 6 times in 16 shots for 176 yards, while the Bulldogs picked up 101 yards with 6 completed aerials in 19 tries. Still the Kentucky scoring avalanche was held off until 52 minutes of the game had been played.

However brilliant the Cats played in the closing minutes, their work for the first three quarters was as stale as undated coffee. While the defense held together in pushing back the Georgia drives the fleet Kentucky backs were unable to break loose due to faulty and badly timed blocking.

Game Rough On Cats

It was a bruised and battered team of Cats that emerged from the game, which was as rough as a Northwoodman's beard. John Eibner, who played one of the best games in his career at tackle, returned with the initials of some lusty Bulldog carved all over his face, while Captain Joe Shepherd was limping along on legs that creaked like a rocking chair. Practically every other member of the squad who took part in the game received some sort of bruise. Kentucky was penalized 70 yards for roughing while a total of 30 yards was called against Georgia for eye-gouging, elbowing, biting, etc.

Combs' opening kick-off was returned to the 44 by Cate and Kinsey followed with a short plunge over guard for two yards. On a reverse from Cate, Kinsey anked around end for 28 yards and down to the Kentucky 25 where he was downed by Zoeller and Shepherd. Here the Cat defense steadied and the ball was taken on downs after four futile pops at the line.

Kentucky Starts

Then again in the third quarter the Blues stormed to the Georgia 3 yard stripe only to again thumb their noses at a scoring chance.

When it came to covering those last few yards—that heart-break highway that leads to the dough—Kentucky was too much like that little man who wasn't there.

Except for these scoring flurries by Kentucky and a futile Georgia try for a field goal in the third period, the battle had been going along about as slow as a neighborhood game of squat tag. The 15,000 customers in Louisville's duPont Manual stadium were all ready to draw the curtains over a scoreless tie when Kentucky started to work and the fans' partied company with reason.

Storm Back Again

Then again in the third quarter the Blues stormed to the Georgia 3 yard stripe only to again thumb their noses at a scoring chance.

When it came to covering those last few yards—that heart-break highway that leads to the dough—Kentucky was too much like that little man who wasn't there.

Except for these scoring flurries by Kentucky and a futile Georgia try for a field goal in the third period, the battle had been going along about as slow as a neighborhood game of squat tag. The 15,000 customers in Louisville's duPont Manual stadium were all ready to draw the curtains over a scoreless tie when Kentucky started to work and the fans' partied company with reason.

Game And Cats Nearly Gone

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Game And Cats Nearly Gone

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Game And Cats Nearly Gone

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Game And Cats Nearly Gone

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Game And Cats Nearly Gone

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Kentucky Starts

With 2 minutes remaining to be played, the Wildeats scoring fury that had been backing up all afternoon like flood water against a levee suddenly broke loose.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a bead and whistled a pass with the accuracy of William Tell to Jones in the center of the field on the 37. Jones cut toward the sideline and running like a Democratic candidate in Mississippi, dashed the remaining 67 yards for a touchdown. Despite the fact that the stands were now ready for a civic straight jacket, the fireworks had just started.

Came Then The Thrills

Five passes and two plunges later Jim Fordham, who plunged like a mobile snow plow, concluded a 67 yard drive by ramming over center for the marker that deadlocked the game tighter than a case of lock-jaw. Even that was but an anti-climax for there was more to come.

Allen, from his own 20, faded back, drew a